What Is In Future For Alben Barkley... Retirement, Foreign Post, Senate Seat?

Nowhere in the United States is there greater disappointment about Alben Barkley's treatment at the Democratic National Convention than right here in West Kentucky. Here in Fulton, and in every hamlet, crossroads and big city in the Purchase there is deep and unabating sorrow to see one of the Nation's most beloved public servants "bow-out" without receiving the highest reward this nation can bestow on a great statesman. In many homes there were genuine tears of regret for Alben Barkley, whose long and faithful service was repudiated by the very persons who had received more benefits from his loyalty than any other group in America. In Chicago, hundreds of delegates from many other States than Kentucky called it a premeditated doublecross. When the history of the convention is written it may prove to be just the action that the delegates called it.

What will Alben Barkley do now that he is no longer a public servant? Unquestionably the "consolation prize" could be an ambassadorship, perhaps to the Court of St. James. But Alben Barkley has been too long in the service of his country to accumulate any personal wealth, and it takes a sizeable private income to supplement the salary paid such a representative of the United States.

On the other hand he could possibly get back into the Senate of the United States. There could be some juggling in the Senatorial seats now held by Tom Underwood and Earle Clements with a resignation in either one of the seats and Barkley's subsequent appointment to the vacant post.

He could be named to some high United Nations post where his gregarious disposition, his convivial wit and his warm personal charm might do a great deal to thaw out the stubborn attitude of the representatives from belligerent Nations.

It is not beyond reason that he might choose to retire from public life and enjoy the company of his neighbors in Paducah while writing his memories. Although we know that he deserves this rest, we hope that he will not make this an early choice, for America needs, and still needs badly the services of Alben Barkley.

Whatever his decision for his future activities might be it is an irrefutable fact that our beloved neighbor is truly "Mr. Democrat" and as long as he lives, he will hold a very special niche in our personal Hall of Fame and in the hearts of all the American people as a great American, a great Statesman and a beloved gentleman who has served his country long and well.

Adlai Stevenson Is A-1 Candidate

Much to the dismay of the Republicans (and we especially bow in the direction of a nearby newspaper whose clamor has been loudest) the Democrats picked an "A" number-one, first class, heads-up candidate to lead the Democratic party in the November election.

The News editor went to the convention and saw him in person; we stayed at home and listened and watched, along with millions of others, over Television, and were immensely impressed with what we saw and heard. We have been the more impressed by what we have read about Adlai Stevenson since his nomination.

Here we have an experienced executive, running one of the major States (Illinois) of the nation and doing a good job of it. Here we have one experienced in the political maze of the Nation, capable of understanding and directing our internal affairs from his first-hand knowledge of government.

Following the selection of Governor Stevenson last Friday, a Chicago paper (who admitted in the same breath that it had already committed itself to support Eisenhower) spoke of him in these admiring terms:

Stevenson is a liberal in the best sense of the word; he believes in the maximum amount of freedom and opportunity for all persons; he believes in freedom of individual initiative; he believes that there is no virtue in the centralization of power in Washington; he doesn't believe in interference with free markets, free men or free enterprise; he is a "hard man with a dollar" who believes passionately in balanced public budgets, and he has set an example in Illinois government for thrift and prudent use of public funds.

The sound administration of the internal affairs of our nation is the basic requirement of our President; his foreign affairs are important but nevertheless secondary in importance. Our foreign affairs can no more be the 100% center of Presidential thinking (at the expense of disregarding good, internal government), than the tail can wag the dog.

If Adlai Stevenson was reluctant to enter the Presidential race, we rather imagine it was because, as a responsible Governor, he well knows that the job is staggering if it is to be done well, and also that if he undertakes it he will expect to do it well. He obviously seeks no political prestige out of it, nor does he seek glory nor immortality. He realizes that the frills are of minor satisfaction compared to the job itself.

Adlai Stevenson will be making a good many public speeches in the months to come. Listen to him; examine what he stands for and his way of doing things. His first-hand experience in governmental affairs places him head-and-shoulders over one who has no experience whatsoever.

Experience is a wise teacher; our Nation can ill afford to offer an ex-soldier his first post.

Now that the Democrats have Adlai Stevenson we daresay that the callope on the Eisenhower bandwagon will develop a lot of leaks in its steam pipe.

Is Cancer Diagnosis A Death Sentence?

Within the past week the newspapers have reported the deaths of two national and international figures Eva Peron and Brian McMahon as a result of cancer, or the kinder announcement, "after a lingering illness." Elsewhere in those same editions were other notices, of lesser prominence perhaps, with the same meaning words, "after a lingering illness."

Those four simple words have come to mean something fearsome to all of us. To those of us who have seen loved ones suffer the tortuous death from cancer, it has ring of frustration and helplessness at standing by while the last heartbeat flickers from a racked and emaciated body torn with suffering.

How far has cancer research progressed in the last twenty years, or even in the last five? Every now and then a startling story is released on some new discovery for the treatment and cure of the disease, but yet, the "lingering illness" tag seems to multiply in the death notices.

These observations are not intended to denounce the efforts of the medical profession or the American Cancer Society, or the research societies engaged in seeking cancer cure and treatment, but as sober contemplation of a serious and tragic situation affecting our daily lives.

Regardless of the optimism shown by some researchers, the diagnosis of cancer has come to mean a death sentence, with the newest and most powerful of the sciences only a temporary reprieve.

GOING SOMEWHERE, BUD?

(By Rev. James V. Linden)

WHERE DID I come from? Where am I going? Why am I on this earth?

There is no consideration more profitable than the study of your eternal destiny.

"Why should I practice religion? What's the good of it? Why is it necessary?"

YOU CAME out of the womb of eternity. With the speed of the fastest airplane that ever winged its way across the sky, you are traveling forward toward another eternity.

You ask, "What am I supposed to do while I am on this journey? Is the journey after all worth taking seriously. Should I try to direct my way, or should I just let myself drift?"

"Is there possibly a port toward which I am headed, for which it would be worth while steering a straight course and suffering the buffets of this life to reach?"

THERE IS such a port. You were put here by God, to live a short time on probation, to prove yourself amid the trials and temptations of this life as worthy of the life to come.

You can say, "I was created by God, I am destined for God, and only the possession of God can one day fill my heart to overflowing with all happiness. Riches and honors pass away. Only God and eternal life remain forever."

The great St. Augustine was a man who tasted most of the pleasures that this life affords.

IN THE END, however, he turned away from them with emptiness in his heart, exclaiming: "Thou hast made me for Thyself, O Lord, and my heart will not rest unless it rest in Thee."

Why then should you be concerned about religion? Why? Because God demands it of you and because the salvation of your immortal soul is at stake.

Dick Oberlin:

Oberlin's Observations

There's an old saying, a somewhat cynical one, to the effect that the more things change the more they are the same.

Our just completed Republican and Democratic National Conventions well illustrate this truth. In every fundamental respect, the two conventions paralleled each other almost startlingly.

There were several occasions last week in Chicago when you rubbed your eyes in wonder, in doubt, in disbelief — and thought, "this can't be a different convention. It must be the same one. These can't be Democrats, it's the Republicans all over again!"

There is good reason for this similarity: there is in the Democratic party the same ideological split that resulted in such bitter Republican fights on which delegations from Texas and Louisiana should be recognized.

When the Democrats got around to the fight it was superficially on whether the elected and accredited delegates of Texas and Mississippi really are Democrats, or if they represented a state majority which would sabotage the regular Democratic nominees by trying to keep them off their state ballots.

The realities were somewhat more obscure. These "state majorities" called Democrats bolted their national party four years ago because they considered the Civil Rights Plank adopted by the 1948 Democratic Convention as much too radical. These are conservative individuals who profess a desire to advance the lot of a racial minority—at the same time they say, "they must, however, be kept in their place."

Philosophically, the Texas Democrats, headed by former representative Maury Maverick are in affinity with the national party, and the group headed by Governor Alan Shivers is attuned much more closely with the right wing of the Republican Party.

This is one of the striking things to develop from the Conventions. The ideas of the young Turks of the Republican Party, which won such a signal victory here the second week in July, are not far from those of the Roosevelt-Truman-Barkley wing of the Democratic Party.

And, similarly, the ideas of the Dixiecrats closely parallel those of the Taft-Dawson Republicans. There is in this situation, and the very bitter fights of the two Conventions, fights almost as bitter in the Democratic Convention as in the GOP meeting, but more cleverly covered up, hopes of a realignment of our national political parties in the not too far distant future.

This realignment would formalize the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition in Congress which has handcuffed the Truman Administration, and allow us to vote a real choice — Conservative or Liberal. At least, it's desirable!

THAT NEWS BOY

The other afternoon I was in a building of some 40 offices. A boy carrying some papers came into the office where I was and said "Captain, just as you stepped in to the elevator I saw you drop this paper out of your pocket and it has some names on it. I thought it might be important so I have looked in all of the offices until I found you." I wondered who else but a carrier boy would do something like that. It seems to me, for some reason that they are on their toes more than the other fellows and I have been watching them for a long time.

Some Interesting News Items

The New Jersey Light and Power Company told its users that if they could be excused from paying taxes for one year they would give them power and gas for 5 months with out any charge. It is no wonder that the tax exempt REA (and I have it) can give us a little cheaper rate than the privately owned power companies. We think that we get something for nothing from the government so many times when we are really paying for it through the nose and we are not bright enough to see it.

Congressmen have voted themselves large tax exemptions (while they pour it on to us) and I am wondering if it would not be alright to increase congress to about 60 million.

Senator Johnston brings on auditors in the last days of congress showing that because of complications it took 153 thousand dollars to fire about 30 government civil service employees but then the government hired the same number to fill the vacancies made by the fired ones. I wonder how much we know about running a government any how.

PROS AND CONS AND HERE IS YOUR UNITED STATES

By Floyd Cramer

Adolf Hitler operated on the theory that the Big Lie, if told often enough, would finally be accepted as the Big Truth. Hitler came into power as a Socialist. We must never forget that.

Nor must we ever forget that the Russian Socialists, day in and day out, also rely on the Big Lie after another.

Currently in the United States, the Socialists' Big Lie is the assertion that the Free Enterprise system benefits only the powerful and the rich. By making this accusation over and over, the Socialists hope to alienate the American people from the economic and political system which the American people themselves created, and which has made them great.

As a matter of fact and as a matter of historic record, the Free Enterprise system benefits every person who has the blessed good fortune to live under it. Its benefits are by no means limited. They extend to every professional man, every small businessman, every farmer, and every salaried employee.

Let me give you just one instance with respect to the professions, the case of the doctors. The people of this country have a natural desire to make the best skills of the medical profession available at the lowest possible cost to the largest possible number of people.

Socialist-minded folks argued that the way to do this was to compel the doctors to join up in a nationalized scheme for socialized medicine. For a while, that campaign seemed to be gaining strength. But now it is weakening.

Why? Simply because, under our Free Enterprise system, doctors and patients have formed voluntary associations of their own, which serve to extend medical service at low cost. Because the Free Enterprise system permitted and encouraged these voluntary medical service associations, the physicians and surgeons of our country have been able to fight off the demand that they be regimented and federally controlled.

In this manner, the M.D.'s of the United States have escaped the shackles placed upon them in the Socialist countries. They are still free men, and, thanks to Free Enterprise, the American people are on the way toward more and cheaper medical care.

This highly desirable outcome has been achieved without government intervention. Every doctor is left free to choose the group with which he will affiliate or not to affiliate with any group at all. Subscribers to these plans may select any group they like. Moreover, no one can be forced into a group he can still call in an outside doctor whenever he wants to. Surely this is better than the Russian system or even the British system under which the all powerful state interferes in one of the most delicate of human relationships, that which should exist between physician and patient.

That's the American way to deal with a problem. In another short article soon, I will show how Free Enterprise methods also protect the farmer, the small businessman and the employee.

Parisian Laundry In 26th Year of Successful Operation

The Parisian Laundry has some kind of a record for modern progress in the field of laundering and dry cleaning. The record, however, is the personal accomplishment of one Presley Campbell, who has owned the laundry since 1940 and from that time until today he has replaced every piece of machinery in the plant with newer and more efficient models. Only one piece of machinery remains of the original plant and that is an extractor, which has not changed in style much in those twelve years. Nearly everything in the operation of the laundry has changed for the betterment of the thousands of customers the laundry serves. Modern ironers, modern washers, modern dry cleaning apparatus have been installed. One day in the not too distant past this reporter sauntered into the laundry to pass the time of day with the genial workers in the plant. Mr. Campbell and his sons were busily engaged in inspecting a new hat blocking machine and the enthusiasm they exhibited was compared to that of a little boy just getting his first electric train. The blocking machine is a wonder, and the old beat up, dirty derby can be put onto the equipment and with a few simple revolutions and some specially prepared cleaning solution the head-gear comes out looking like a spanking brand new hat. Last year Mr. Campbell was having some difficulty with his huge ironer in the plant. He was not so sure that the flat work was being turned out to his critical satisfaction so after a conference with his son, John Joe and other members of the staff they decided to buy a new 6-roll super-sylon flatwork ironer. The ironer is the last word in modern, safe, speedy ironing of all types of linens, such as sheets, pillow cases, bed spreads, table cloths, napkins, etc. Ruggedly constructed from specially selected metals cast in American's own foundry, it weighs over 12½ tons.

The 6-Roll SUPER-SYLON Flatwork Ironer is steam heated—cannot scorch or burn work. It is push-button operated, with automatic safety guard that shuts off machine if operator's hand comes in contact with it. Attractive indicators register ironing speeds for different types of work and whether proper ironing pressure is being applied.
